

Driving Adoption Of Epic Rover And Haiku

Our Team Has Experience Across:

- Nurse call best practice
- Alert & alarm system design
- Mobile clinical documentation
- EMR alerting: stat order, discharge processes, sepsis alerting, critical lab values

Epic Rover and Haiku increase clinical efficiency, documentation compliance, and improve execution of clinical workflow. But end user adoption suffers without a complete communication solution that can consolidate devices, offer a reliable voice experience, and unite communication, collaboration, and workflow in one experience to close the loop on patient care.

Edge Delivers

- Best in category voice calling for reliable, clinical-grade performance
- In-app linking between Edge and Epic mobile applications for an effortless end user experience
- Nurse call integration for inbound notifications and voice connectivity to patients
- Patient monitor alarm notifications including delivery, confirmation and forwarding
- Complete care team directory including assigned, on-call, extended, and ancillary roles via real-time Active Directory syncing
- Accurate, easy to manage, care team assignment via Epic Treatment Team integration

Edge Supports Physicians With:

- On-call scheduling enables easier management and real-time visibility of specialty provider on-call schedules
- Preferred contact method provides user adjustable settings for preferred contact method
- HIPAA-compliant SMS paging connects to affiliated physicians not in Epic and on-call providers inadvertently not logged into Edge or Epic
- Physician privacy suite includes outbound phone number masking and cell phone number cloaking to internal staff

Clinical Expertise for Turnkey Implementation

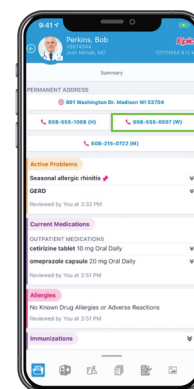

Designing a communication system that drives adoption and value for your health system requires a combination of clinical workflow design expertise, integration management, and a deep understanding of mobile bedside care. Vocera's clinically degreed team works closely with your leadership and frontline staff to define, design, and deploy a solution to solve clinical workflow challenges and improve outcomes.

Edge supports your EMR strategy with a simple and complete communications solution that increases adoption and care team satisfaction. Close the loop on care with Edge.
